CHICAGO, Ill. (July 14, 2015) – Let your taste buds run wild at the Chicago History Museum's third annual Chicago Hot Dog Fest that sprawls out this August to include a full lineup of bands, hot dog history speakers, and hot dog vendors serving up their spin on the Chicago-style hot dog.

The Chicago History Museum expands its annual family-friendly celebration into a three day event on Friday, August 7 from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, August 8 from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Sunday August 9 from 11 am to 8 p.m., at the corner of Clark St. and LaSalle St. in Chicago's beautiful Lincoln Park.

The classic Chicago-style hot dog, made exclusively with Vienna® Beef, will be the star of the festival. Enjoy tasty treats from vendors like Boricua Dog, Flashy Hotdogs, Chubby Wieners, Frannie's Beef and Catering, Chicago Classic, Select Cut Steakhouse, Cookers Red Hots, Fatso's Last Stand & Frank Meats Patty and many more.

Chicago Hot Dot Fest's music lineup has something for all music lovers. Friday brings '90s cover band The Personnel, boogie rock group Ryan Powers & the Secret Weapons and wacky coverband and Chicago favorite, Wedding Banned. Saturday's music lineup includes reggae band Roots Rock Society, swinging jazz and blues band The Flat Cats and Led Zeppelin tribute band Kashmir, among others. On Sunday audiences can go back in time with '60s throwback band Generation, enjoy Latin grooves with Guitarra Azul and rock out with classic rock headliner 97 Nine.

When you've filled up on hot dogs, head over to the Speaker's Stage for a taste of history from the city's leading hot dog experts, 12 to 4 p.m. daily. On Friday Bill Savage, Northwestern University professor, tackles an infamous hot dog topping during his talk, "Ketchup: The Condiment of Controversy." Later that day Russell Lewis, the Museum's vice president and chief historian, addresses Chicago's Union Stock Yards. Saturday brings Rich Bowen, Loyola professor and author of "Hot Dog Chicago," and Bruce Kraig, author of "Man Bites Dog." Save room for Sunday's talk on the people behind Chicago's favorite hot dog stands by Vienna's own Bob Schwartz, author of 'Never Put Ketchup on a Hot Dog."

Families and kids can ketchup on craft activities, face-painting, rides and musical entertainment for kids in the Museum's Village. Visitors of all-ages can transform into a Chicago-style hot dog, compete with choice of condiments. Smile for a picture and share on social media with the hashtag #HotDogFest.

Admission to the festival is free. Discounted 'Early-Bird' food ticket packages are now available online. Dog Dollars for food, alcohol, and non-alcoholic beverages will also be sold individually at the festival. For more information please visit chicagohotdogfest.com or call 312-642-4600.

The Chicago History Museum gratefully acknowledges the support of the Chicago Park District on behalf of the people of Chicago.

Chicago Cultural Institutions Come Together for Inaugural Museum Week Visitors invited to celebrate 12 of Chicago's world-class museums Oct. 1-7, 2015

CHICAGO – Sept. 9, 2015 – While Chicago is known for many things – from architecture to food – its world-class museums are among the top draws for people visiting the city. To celebrate the city's outstanding cultural institutions, Museums In the Park, an association of museums on Chicago Park District land, will host Chicago's inaugural Museum Week, kicking off Oct. 1, 2015. With 12 of Chicago's institutions participating, Museum Week will be seven days of exclusive offers, events and special programs with an opportunity to explore what makes each institution special.

"Museum Week is a chance to rediscover Chicago's most iconic institutions that connect us with exceptional collections of art, culture, history, science, animals and nature," said Gary T. Johnson, president, Museums In the Park. "We want people to explore places that are new to them or visit old favorites. Chicago has a wealth of cultural institutions and Museum Week provides extra incentives and opportunities to visit them."

During Museum Week, guests can visit the number one museum in the world as chosen by TripAdvisor travelers (The Art Institute), and the first museum on the planet to have two full-size planetarium dome theaters (Adler Planetarium). Visitors can check out museums housed in repurposed buildings, including the only remaining building from the 1893 World's Columbian Exposition (Museum of Science and Industry, and formerly occupied by The Field Museum), a police station (DuSable Museum of African American History) and the Humboldt Park Stables (National Museum of Puerto Rican Arts & Culture). At the National Museum of Mexican Art, guests can see the world's largest Dia de Los Muertos, or Day of the Dead, exhibit, and at the Chicago History Museum, guests can see Nathan Leopold's glasses that implicated him and Richard Loeb in the murder of Bobby Franks in The Secret Lives of Objects exhibit.

CHICAGO MUSEUM WEEK PRESS RELEASE CONTD.

Chicago's museums not only offer some of the most unique collections in the world, they are education centers that draw students and teachers and inspire people of all ages to learn about and appreciate science, art, history, wildlife and nature. Many enable personal experiences with animals, such as Shedd Aquarium, which offers a high school marine biology class, including a week aboard Shedd's research vessel in the Bahamas. Committing to working closely with teachers and schools, they offer special programs, such as at the Museum of Science and Industry, which targets middle-grades teachers in high-needs schools, helping them find engaging ways to teach science. And for more than 25 years, the Peggy Notebaert Nature Museum's Science on the Go! professional development program has been helping K-8 teachers bring science into their classrooms through hands-on, cooperative learning.

Special offers and activities during Museum Week include discounts on general admission and memberships, extended hours, free tours, new exhibits, educational programs and giveaways. A complete schedule is available at chicagomuseumweek.com.

Chicagoans, visitors and museum buffs are encouraged to share their memories and new experiences on social media using the designated hashtag: #ChicagoMuseumWeek.

The 12 cultural institutions participating in Museum Week are: Adler Planetarium, The Art Institute of Chicago, Chicago History Museum, DuSable Museum of African American History, The Field Museum, Lincoln Park Zoo, Museum of Contemporary Art, Museum of Science and Industry, National Museum of Mexican Art, National Museum of Puerto Rican Arts & Culture, The Peggy Notebaert Nature Museum and John G. Shedd Aquarium.

The Oct. 1-7 event, scheduled to be formally announced Wednesday, will play out across a dozen city institutions, from the Museum of Science and Industry to the south to Lincoln Park Zoo to the north to the National Museum of Puerto Rican Arts and Culture to the west.

"We've seen the way that rallying around a common theme can help, like fashion week or restaurant week. Why not do museum week?" asked Gary Johnson, president of Museums in the Park, the umbrella organization that came up with the idea. So the 11 Museums in the Park members,

"Something we take for granted is that Chicago really is a museum city. It's one of the distinguishing features of this city," said Johnson.

Offers include Lincoln Park Zoo, which is free, offering 10 percent off on memberships; the Art Institute offering $10 off on memberships and free museum orientation tours; and the DuSable Museum of African American History offering two-for-one tickets and 10 percent off in its store. BEAUTIFICATION PROJECT PRESS RELEASE

LPCC, Chicago History Museum Partner for Innovative Program to Beautify Lincoln Park's Business Districts

> Program Markets Available Properties, Encourages Entrepreneurs to "Make History."

CHICAGO – The Lincoln Park Chamber of Commerce (LPCC) and the Chicago History Museum are working together towards a creative solution aimed at maintaining the charm of the Lincoln Park neighborhood in areas where there are commercial properties available for lease.

The LPCC and the Chicago History Museum today announced an innovative storefront banner program that will work to market available commercial space, highlight the neighborhood's past, beautify the street and encourage entrepreneurs to "Make History" in the available space. The LPCC and Chicago History Museum storefront banner program celebrates the history of Lincoln Park and showcases the extensive photo library maintained by the Chicago History Museum today.

Chicago's Lincoln Park neighborhood is a well-known destination for shopping, dining, entertainment and more. One of the neighborhood's most attractive qualities is the architectural diversity and historical significance of storefronts along its commercial corridors. When you couple that with the city's leaders in Chicago history calling Lincoln Park home, it is only natural to bring history to the forefront of the community's storefronts.

"We are thrilled to be working with the Chicago History Museum and their team to showcase one-of-a-kind neighborhood photos for this program and to market our available commercial spaces in a creative way," said Kim Schilf, President and CEO of the LPCC. "The storefront banner program partnership with the Chicago History Museum represents an intersection of the great ideals and passion for a vibrant, welcoming experience that both of our organizations are committed to in the neighborhood."

"The Chicago History Museum is proud to partner with LPCC to share our collection of historic images with the Lincoln Park neighborhood, "said Chicago History Museum President Gary Johnson. "We welcome this opportunity to enhance storefront facades while connecting people to the city's rich history."

PRESS RELEASE CONTD.

"We've had significant reductions in vacant storefronts along our retail corridors in recent years and this exciting new partnership will further enhance our shopping destinations on Armitage, Halsted and Clark," said Ald. Michele Smith (43rd). "The storefront banner program will add to the vibrancy of our neighborhoods, providing photos of our neighborhood's past, while attracting new businesses for our neighborhood's future."

Pulling from their archives, the Chicago History Museum was able to find Lincoln Park-specific photos for the campaign. The first three properties to feature the "Make History" banners include:

2558 N. Clark 901 W. Armitage 2030 N. Halsted

A complete list of storefronts featuring the "Make History" banners will be available and regularly updated on the LPCC's website. The LPCC and Chicago History Museum will continue to work with local commercial real estate brokers to fill their windows with the neighborhood's history. Further, the LPCC will provide interested brokers with data and resources to help them get the properties leased.

"We want to make our commercial corridors as attractive as possible to current and future businesses and the customers who will help support their endeavors," Schilf continued. "Our partnership with the Chicago History Museum gives Lincoln Park's residents and visitors a glimpse into the unique history that has shaped Lincoln Park's character and charm."

Commercial property owners interested in adorning their available properties with a "Make History" banner should contact Martin Sorge, director of community development at the LPCC at (773) 880-5200.

CHICAGO AUTHORED PRESS RELEASE

CHICAGO AUTHORED TO SHOWCASE CITY'S LITERARY HISTORY IN EXHIBITION OPENING THIS FALL

The Chicago History Museum launches first entirely crowd-sourced exhibition.

CHICAGO, III. — Carl Sandburg called it the "City of Big Shoulders." Carolyn Martineau dubbed it "the place that invented the wind-chill." Consider what Chicago means to you in Chicago Authored, the first-ever entirely crowd-sourced museum exhibition, which opens at the Chicago History Museum on Saturday, October 17, 2015.

"We asked Chicago to give us an assignment, and we are thrilled to present Chicago Authored, an exhibition that epitomizes the Museum's mission to share Chicago's stories," said Chicago History Museum President Gary T. Johnson.

The Museum boldly asked Chicagoans to select an exhibition topic, entirely free of suggestion, in a tournament-style competition dubbed the Chicago History Bowl. The submissions that flooded in included Chicago's neighborhoods, Prohibition, architecture, the Great Chicago Fire, and notable women of Chicago. Chicagoans voted for weeks; their selection: Chicago authors.

"The bedrock, inarguable reality is that everyone only has a piece. No one experiences Chicago in its entirety. Because you can't; it's impossible, there's too much of it." – Neil Steinberg, You Were Never in Chicago

Starting this fall, explore a collection of diverse and inspiring works by writers, past and present. These authors define the character of Chicago and help us understand the complexity, beauty, and rich history of our great city. Explore classic works from Nelson Algren and Gwendolyn Brooks, famous for their Chicago-focused material, and encounter more recent writers, such as Malcolm London and Audrey Petty, whose works demonstrate that Chicago is still a place that has secrets to reveal and new stories to share.

On both sides of the pond stood the great pavilions of the Columbian Exposition, the White City. It was Greece and Rome again, and every column and curlicue lit by an incandescent bulb." – Richard Peck, Fair Weather

The new café-style space is designed for thoughtful listening, reading, and conversation. Interactive experiences—including a postcard-writing activity and magnetic poetry wall—encourage visitors to express their own understanding of the city. Visitors are invited to browse the gallery's bookshelves and make recommendations to others. These elements were designed in the spirit of the Chicago History Bowl's original mission to encourage the public to participate in the exhibition.

CHICAGO AUTHORED PRESS RELEASE CONTD.

Enhance your experience with two new full-length multimedia experiences, Chicago Authored and Crossroads Authored. The Chicago Authored audio tour prompts visitors to discover the works of Chicago writers through four perspectives: a view from a window, through an open door, into a keyhole, and reflected in a mirror. Continue your exploration of the city's literary past in the Museum's permanent exhibition Chicago: Crossroads of America. Experience the exhibition like never before and listen to works by a dozen beloved authors, including Theodore Dreiser, Lorraine Hansberry, and Studs Terkel. Audio tours are included with Museum admission.

The Chicago History Museum gratefully acknowledges the support of Lead Corporate Sponsor of Chicago Authored BMO Harris Bank with additional support from the Department of Cultural Affairs & Special Events IncentOvate grant and the Field Foundation of Illinois.

'Chicago Authored': Our city's prose as history

MUSEUMS

City's prose as history in 'Authored'

But perhaps foremost among the exceptional ways that "Chicago Authored" is being presented to the public is this: Go ahead, the museum says, grab a coffee and a sandwich while you take it in.

But for a show about writing, where the meaning of the words is more important than what they looked like in published form, this digital presentation is a winner. That you can experience it while having a blueberry muffin — or even while sitting at your own kitchen table — is even more of a plus and a feat worth writing about.

4. "Chicago Authored": We're not sure what being "the first-ever entirely crowd-sourced museum exhibition selection" is going to mean in practice, beyond the notion that a show on Chicago writers beat out other topics, including the Great Chicago Fire and women of Chicago. We do know that it'll be hard to go wrong with an exploration of the likes of Carl Sandburg, Nelson Algren, Saul Bellow, Gwendolyn Brooks and Stuart Dybek. Opens Oct. 17 at the Chicago History Museum, 1601 N. Clark St.; $14 general admission; 312-642-4600 and chicagohistory.org.

Two years ago, the Chicago History Museum devised a single-elimination tournament where public votes determined a future exhibition topic, the first known instance of bracketological curation. The tournament bears fruit in this exploration of Chicago's writers, beginning with Carl Sandburg's poem "Chicago," the source of about half the city's nicknames. Curators also have booked the works of Nelson Algren and Gwendolyn Brooks, as well as contemporary authors and poets, for examination and iPod-guided tours in what they're calling a coffeehouse atmosphere that sounds appropriate for literary culture, though maybe a speakeasy would be even more Chicagoan.
